Dear Members of ERSA, dear Colleagues,

The future of our Association depends on the existence of a new generation of regional scientists growing up in our Community. For this reason, I am delighted to see how the RSAI network supports young scientists with many initiatives.

At the ERSA Congress, a special place is given to young scientists with the Young Scientists Sessions and the Epainos Award, ERSA.

Many of our national sections are proposing outstanding Regional Science Schools and initiatives for young scholars. The new initiative of AISRE in honour of Roberto Camagni is remarkable. Not to mention other initiatives like reduced fees for our events, various prizes, grants.

I encourage all our sections to continue in this direction and all young scientists to join our network to build up valuable connections and boost their career.

I wish you a good reading of all opportunities presented in this newsletter.

With best wishes,

Roberta Capello, ERSA President

NEW

AISRe is glad to announce the first edition of the Roberto Camagni Postdoctoral Scholarship.

The scholarship is established to recognise and honour the contribution of Professor Roberto Camagni, a founder of AISRe and an outstanding regional science researcher. This initiative is aimed at support the development of early career researchers (scholars younger than 35 years and who have received their PhD certificate no more than three before the application deadline) by granting a scholarship for a research visiting period in a hosting research institution in the European (EU27 + UK) territory.

The value of the scholarship is 15,000 € and applications are open until 15 May 2024.

For further information, please visit the Scholarship page at www.aisre.it.
